CROFTON SENSATION.

Miss Dora Cavanaugh Hunts a Lover With a Pistol.

Fails to Find Him And the Affair Gets Into Print.

The little town of Crofton has had a social sensation for several days, in which Miss Nora Cavanaugh has taken the leading part.

The following special from Dayton, Ohio, Saturday, gave the main facts:

"The authorities have taken into custody Miss Nora Cavanaugh, of Crofton, Ky., who came here in search of a treacherous lover. She appealed to the police for aid, saying she would be willing to work to secure money with which to reach home, the search having failed in the location of her sweetheart, who was supposed to have gone to Pleasant Hill, Ohio. Upon her return to Dayton it appeared that the girl was losing her mind, and the Infirmary Department took charge of her. When searched at the station house a revolver was found in one of her stockings, and a nominal charge of carrying concealed weapons was placed against her, but will not be pressed. Her relatives were notified and may care for her."

Miss Cavanaugh's brother came to this city Saturday and wired his sister the money to return home, and she arrived here Sunday and returned yesterday to her father's home in Hopkins county.

Miss Cavanaugh had lived in Crofton for about a year, making her home recently with Timothy Brown's family.

A young employee of the Empire Coal Co. has been paying attention to her for several months and recently the young man left Empire and it was to search for him that the girl went to her former home in Ohio. She failed to find him.

TYPHOID FEVER

Causes Death of Mr. Wortham
After Brief Illness.

Mr. F. C. Wortham, a well known cigar maker, died at his home on West Fourth street Sunday evening, after an illness of three weeks of typhoid fever.

He was 25 years old and is survived by a widow and one child, a daughter about four years old.

Deceased was reared near Sinking Fork, but had been living in the city about five years. He was a member of the Baptist church. Funeral services were held at his late home yesterday afternoon and the interment took place in the Brick church cemetery, near Sinking Fork.

ASSIGNMENTS MADE.

Only Two Christian County Men
Get August Work.

The following assignments of Christian county Government employees was made by Collector Franks at Owensboro last week: Guager—J. W. Morgan, Glenmore distillery, No. 24. Store keeper—Guager—John W. Postell, general and special B. W. H. As this is the dull season among the storekeepers and guagers, on account of the majority of the distilleries closing down during "dog days," there were only about 40 assignments made for operation during the month of August. This leaves about 30 unassigned men, who will have to wait for fall jobs.

Lost Little Son.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. McGrew, died last Thursday evening at the home of its parents on Fourth street. The interment took place in Hopewell cemetery Friday.

ON THE HUSTLE

Is The Queen City of the Pen-sylvania.

Owensboro Will Demonstrate
What She Can Do With a Big Attraction at the State Fair.

The enterprising business men of Owensboro have carried their plans far enough along to make it clear that the State Fair during the week of September 21st is going to be a greater success even than was experienced last year in Louisville.

They are already showing that when Owensboro bids for a big attraction, success is assured the enterprise, it matters not what the nature of it may be.

This, at least, is the opinion of the directors of the State Fair, who found a tea-sewing, determined set of business men at Owensboro ready to take hold of every suggestion and carry it to a successful conclusion.

The following local committee have been placed in charge there:

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.
Dr. J. G. Stickman, C. W. Bradford, Lee Ray.

ENTERTAINMENT COMMITTEE.
W. C. Archer, J. W. McCulloch, L. S. Frederick.

During August about 25,000 hand-some State Fair posters will be distributed, most of them course in Western Kentucky counties.

Secretary L. B. Shropshire, at the headquarters in the Board of Trade Building, Louisville, is daily receiving scores of letters from the biggest live-stock men in this State and in the United States announcing their intention to compete for the $20,000 cash prizes that will be distributed. Several new, big amusement attractions will be announced in a week or two.

NO POPE YET.

Fruitless Ballots Taken Saturday and Sunday.

Burning Ballots Tell Outside
Crowds That No Election Has Been Had.

Rome, August 3.—The conclave of cardinals took two more fruitless ballots yesterday. It is said that if Oregon, Kampalla and Serafin Vanutelli drop out of the race, a "dark horse" is a possibility. In this connection, Cardinal Gibbons is mentioned. Efforts have been made by outsiders to communicate with some of the cardinals and suspicious signals have been seen on the cells of several.

From the smoke which issue from burning ballots in the little chimney of the Sistine Chapel to the vast multitude gathered around St. Peter's learned that the second day of the conclave had been fruitless. The conclusion is drawn that the strength of the leading candidates remains unchanged and that no compromise candidate has yet appeared. And there is no indication of how long this condition of affairs will continue. The prolongation of the contest has aroused tremendous public interest, if indeed, it cannot be called excitement. Every trace of that apathy which followed the death of the late Pope has vanished, and instead there now exists a burning interest in everything pertaining to the election of his successor.

They are running a lot of bolters. Mr. Grassham was under the log cabin in '97, while Mr. Grasty, whom the ring are pledged to nominate, once distinguished himself by boiting the nomine, who had beaten him, and running for county clerk against him. I write this not merely to find fault, but to put the people on guard.

Mr. J. W. Gilbert, the Calloway candidate, is a good democrat. But the ring expects to throw him overboard, and nominate a bolter, a man of their own ilk. So I should say let the people rally to Mr. Gilbert. Let at least a democrat once distinguished himself by boiting the nomine, who had beaten him, and running for county clerk against him. I write this not merely to find fault, but to put the people on guard.

Mr. Richard Wadlington recently found three pearls in Little River, at a point just below Pee Dee. One of them is extra fine and is prized very highly. It is pink in color, large and barrel shaped, with ridges representing barrel hoops.

Mr. Wadlington has refused $65 for this gem. He values it at $100. It is the only pearl of the kind found in that stream for years, it is claimed.

The finder of the pearls sold one the size of a turkey shot for $20. The third gem is a little larger than this one and is valued at $25.

QUIT THE RACE.

Senator N. W. Utley Will Not Stand For Re-Election.

Publishes a Card Withdrawning in Which he Rasps His Foes and Some Others Also

Eddyville, Ky., July 30.—State Senator N. W. Utley, the member from this district, is out in a card in this week's issue of the "Tale of Two Cities" in which he withdraws from the race. His card is a very saucy one, as he scores a number of local politicians, an editor of a local paper, and pays his respects to Jack Chinn, Gov. Beckham, and district and state machines. In closing his card Senator Utley says:

"The scheme is to disorganize the democratic party, and then control it. I speak deliberately. The thing is run by disorganizers. Every man of them has a hollering record. Abe Thompson's conduct as a bolter is notorious. John Keys is a past master at the art of fighting democrats. Sinking Fund Smith turned a white feather in '99 in the face of the enemy, and after the election cast reproach upon the martyred Gobell and the contest boards.

"They are running a lot of bolters. Mr. Grassham was under the log cabin in '97, while Mr. Grasty, whom the ring are pledged to nominate, once distinguished himself by boiting the nomine, who had beaten him, and running for county clerk against him. I write this not merely to find fault, but to put the people on guard.

WIFE KILLED

By Her Husband Who Thought She Was a Burglar

Pulton, Ky., July 30.—This morning at 2 o'clock Mrs. Chas. Binford, a well known lady of this place, arose from her bed without awaking her husband and left the room. When she came back in a few minutes the shutting of the door aroused Mr. Binford. He saw the outline of her form and fired, supposing her to be a burglar. The bullet passed through her body, killing her almost instantly. He is beside himself with grief and horror and has to be restrained by his friends from doing himself injury.

Not Over Wise.

There is an old allegorical picture of a man scared at a grasshopper, but in the act of heedlessly treading on a snake. This is paralleled by the man who spends a large sum of money buying a cheap cold, but neglects to provide his family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a safeguard against bowel complaints, whose victims outnumber those of the croupiers hundred to one. This is indeed a case which may be recognized as the most prompt and reliable medicine in for these diseases. For sale by C. K. Wiley, druggist.

A Famous Expression.

A famous expression is "where am I?" Its author, former Congressman James Cobb, of Tuskegee, Ala., died June 4, at East Las Vegas, N. M. Mr. Cobb represented the Fifth Alabama district in congress for twelve years. The New York World explains the origin of the famous expression in this way: "Congressman Cobb held the center of the stage in 1855, through a controversy with Congressman Thomas Watson of Georgia, who charged him with being intoxicated during the debate on the Rockwell-Northern Contested election case, when Mr. Cobb asked the chair in a bewilderment way, 'Where am I?' Mr. Watson said that Mr. Cobb drank out of a private bottle and was badly mixed. A long congressional investigation, with many humorous aspects, resulted in finding that Mr. Cobb drank only cold tea, was not intoxicated, and did not 'reef in the aisles,' as charged."—Com. moner.

Prof. Harrison's New Teacher.

Mrs. H. E. Stone, the new teacher of English Literature at Bethel Female college, comes with high endorsements from many able men among them Hon. A. S. Colyar, Prof. J. B. Hancock, Prof. W. H. Baskerville and Judge H. H. Luton, of Nashville. Prof. Jas. H. Fujita, Russellville, says of her: "I wish to bear testimony to Mrs. Stone's refinement as a lady, to her extensive literary culture, to her thorough mastery of the subject she teaches, to her ability to impart knowledge, and to her peculiar power in stimulating the ambition of her pupils. I have been engaged in teaching twenty eight years, at three of the best colleges in Kentucky and I frankly say I have never met Mrs. Stone's superior in all things that are essential to the model teacher."

HIS WORD FOR IT.*No Need for Hopkinsville People to Do Any Guessing.

No need for Hopkinsville people to fly about in search for relief from kidney trouble. There are no secret signs and disorders and other symptoms of kidney troubles. A man whom you can believe says that Doan's Kidney Pills will reach all such cases.

C. H. Eades, of the firm of Eades & Davis, proprietors of the Coal Yard on Seventh street, says: "I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and thought it might be recommended by persons who had used them that I went to Thomas & Trabern's drug store, procured a box and gave them a thorough trial. I had suffered for a long time with a heavy pain across the small of the back, sharp pains and cramps. When I caught cold it always settled in my back, and there followed a weakness of the kidneys which was exasperating especially at night. I tried various remedies but nothing gave any satisfaction, so satisfactory results as I obtained from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. I am pleased to say that they brought me great relief. I have recommended the pills and will continue to do so to my friends and acquaintances."

A Worm Killer.

J. A. J. Montgomery, Puxico, Wayne Co., Mo., writes: "We have been bothered with worms all their lives. I tried various ways to relieve them which lasted until I used White's Cream Vermifuge; the first two doses brought four worms out of the stool. The next doses relieved them measuring twelve inches each; the other child was only relieved of four worms. It is a most excellent medicine." White's Cream Vermifuge is good for children. It not only destroys worms, it helps the child to perfect growth, wards off sickness. 25c at R. C. Hardwick's.

Pretty Neckwear for Tailor-Made Gowns

THE sort of the most fashionable devices to give tailor-sewerty in dress may be more than satisfied this season. She loves with delight the return of the high linen collar. Nothing to her mind has been more attractive than the high stiff linen collar. The long soft scarf is tied about the base of the collar.

The tie is as rule worn with the stiff linen collar, the long soft scarf is tied about the base of the collar. Individuality is the cry of the season. The stiff linen collar itself is rather against it, but the soft, scarf without detracting a iota in trimming attire looks original in knot or bow. A woman may be her scarf as she pleases provided only the general effect is chie.

Long scarfs are the prevailing neckties. They are indeed very becoming, and may be seen in wear with linen collars. Even scarfs are softly crossed or the ends merely looped over each other. The Windsor tie, with its loose free bow, or sailor knot, is a favorite.

Low rolling hem collar are popular for summer costumes, as they permit perfect freedom of the throat and at the same time have a neat, trim appearance.

Odds and Ends of

SO RAPIDLY do the fashions grow and fade and blossom at this season of the year that one can scarcely do more than to take passing notice of the many little auxiliaries of the daily little luxuries, of the general trend. For one whose duty it is to keep the fumbling mind informed of what is in and what not to wear this season offers many trials that have been foreseen but not fully foreseen. For this time my readers must needs be satisfied with chaff and chatter, with a promise of something more substantial in the future. If it can be found. But, after all, is it not the little points that make the gown the daintier, the more attractive, the more bewitching? I doubt if I can do better than paragraph a few of the things through with a strain of silver or gold, the latter lending at once a certain brightness and dash to any otherwise too sombre costume.

Many of the new fashions show lace effects. For instance, we have colored gauze lace, fine as chiffon. Lace striped silks in new designs show lace.

Other materials appear to be composed of one strip of ribbon and one of lace. The lace is often of printed lace stripes. Green muslins are in novelty. The "Liberty" muslin is as "lisse," "full" muslin, clear Swiss, hand-embroidered and even muslins, and muslins, colored both in red, green shades and variegated, half silk and embroidered muslins in blue, pink, green and yellow are popular. Old lace attains fabulous prices and are being eagerly sought after. In conclusion, The more trim and delicate the style can be made, the more fashionable it will be.

An now let us turn to a few individual gowns. One which I saw the other day, was intended for afternoon wear at home and is still untried. It is of light blue silk with a lace trimmings and a lace bodice and a lace skirt with wavy strapings of rose (taffeta). About the waist was disposed a deep folded belt of rose ribbon, a knotted cravat of the interlacing, a white collar and chemiselets of vaned lace threaded with beaded velvet.

Yet another model that rested its chief success on the finest knitting

I have seen and liked, and which show the true art of fashion.

For instance, there is quite a craze for honored materials, sometimes it is a flowered bane, or a simple branch of roses runs across the shoulder. Blurred, mottled and modernized, these are most fashionable, after which we can mention quite a new series of lace alpacas, mohair and canary in the new supple make, which is required to meet our clinging style of dress.

Trimmings are inset with mother-of-pearl, scales gold, platinum, or steel. Gray lace insertion and Russian embroidery are very smart, and much used on white silk. The cloth cuttings and fringes appear on the quarter coats, many of which are of black cloth or black silk. Buttons, too, are a prominent feature on skirts and bodices.

Black flannel lace is very fashionable, and some boxer imitation is being sold in the guise of expes, rounded or pointed, purple scarves, and insertion of the wavy or square pattern. Detached pieces of lace are much used as transparent trimmings of skirt or bodice.

Paris is preaching with characteristic enthusiasm the jermans of a certain blue tone. But in regard to this I am disposed to think one must own a blue garment before he can learn to carry it off to its best success. I met the fancy, however, the other day, posing successfully as a contrast to navy blue, in the guise of a much gauged silk, with a white and contrasting pattern, and my instant verdict of "tout ensemble" was "admirable." For the little soubion that means so much in these days, champagne and pale French gray are alike in highly requested fashion, though the straw-colored is in slight and applied to grounds of a like genre these delicate contrasts are frequently overlaid by close lines of narrow braid, worked

State College of Kentucky.

The Agricultural and Mechanical (State College) College of Kentucky offers the following courses of study, viz.: Agriculture, Horticulture, Chemical, Biological, Mathematical, Physical, Normal School, Classical, Mechanical, Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Civil Engineering, each of which extends over four years and leads to degree. Post graduate studies are also provided, leading each to a Master's degree. Each course of study is organized under a separate faculty. The general faculty numbers nearly fifty professors and instructors.

COUNTY APPOINTEES receive tuition, room rent in dormitories, fuel and lights, and if they remain ten months, traveling expenses.

The laboratories and museums are large, well-equipped, comprehensive and modern.

The legislature appropriated $60,000 for a college home for young women and $30,000 for drill hall and gymnasium for men. The latter completed and in use, the former will be ready for occupancy in October.

Military tactics and science are fully provided for as required by Congress.

Graduates from the several courses of study readily find well-located positions and liberal remuneration. The demand is largely in excess of the ability of the college to supply. Last year the matriculation list was 604.

Students in the college are provided for pedagogic, engineering and instruction in science.

Specialists with necessary number of assistants have charge of every department of natural science.

The State College of Kentucky, though not entitled to the title of College, is the only university in the Commonwealth doing, in proper sense, university work.

The completion of the college home for young women will provide facilities for good board and lodging. It is equipped with all modern conveniences, including bath rooms and room for physical culture. It will be heated by steam and lighted by electricity.

A Touching Story.

Count Cassini, Russian ambassador to the United States, relates the following story:

"A Russian manufacturer had in his employ a mechanic who for some time had been pleading as an excuse for absence, that his child was ill. When the man did appear to work his face bore unmistakable signs of dissipation, according to the employer's point of view. The workman said it was due to loss of sleep.

"One morning when there was an important piece of work to be done (for the mechanic was a fine artisan), a fellow workman came in and reported to the manufacturer that the irregular mechanic could not come. The child was very sick.

"Angered, the master demanded the place of residence of his lying workman, and he himself would go and rout him out of his drunken stupor.

"The fellow workman, however, gave such a detailed and intricate plan of the district in which the house could be found that the manufacturer did not go to investigate.

"Next morning the workman again reported that the mechanic could not come.

"'I will find him,' said the irate employer, 'where does he live?'

"Very simple matter," said the workman.

"Simple," mused the manufacturer, "yesterday you made believe that it was almost impossible to find him."

"True," said the man, falteringly, "now you must look for the house with a crepe on the door."

"Toledo," said the workman.

"Simple," mused the manufacturer.

"I am just up from a hard spell of the flux" (dysentery), says Mr. T. A. Pinner, a well known merchant of Drummond, Tenn. "I once took a load of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and diarrhoea Remedy and was cured without having a doctor. I consider it the best cholera medicine in the world." There is no need of employing a doctor when this remedy is used, for it is a safe, reliable and effective medicine for bowel complaint in any form either for children or adults. It never fails and is pleasant to take. For sale by C. W. Wyly, druggist.

Gold is a very ordinary metal compared with radium, the new metal, worth $900,000 a pound.

Seelbach's new hotel in Louisville will probably be called "The Commonwealth."

Senator Gorman has virtually announced himself a Democratic candidate for President.

Wm. J. Bryan will be in Owensboro this week for the purpose of delivering a lecture.

Miss Lillian May, a Baltimore girl, was married last week to Lord Bagot, of London.

The rumor is revived that the Tennessee Central will, as soon as completed, pass into the hands of the Illinois Central.

And now they are saying that a Kentuckian led the mob at Danville, Ill. The same was said of the Washington mob. Are there no leaders of men outside of Kentucky?

Hon. W. J. Bryan is to open the Chautauqua at Owensboro. On Friday, August, seventh, he will lecture on "The Value of an Ideal," mounting the platform promptly at 3 o'clock.

Another will of Gen. Cassius M. Clay has been found, having a later date than all others. It is a holograph, dated March 23, 1901, and makes Dora Clay Brock the principal executrix as well as legatee.

The Washington Post prints a cartoon headed "He's Gwine Back to Dixie." A negro is headed towards Kentucky, hunted by armed mobs from Delaware, Indiana, and Illinois. Northern mobs are crowding Kentucky to be over-run with negro refugees.

Joseph W. Folk has begun an active campaign for Governor of Missouri. As all the rascals in the state will fight him, he has a hard row to hoe. A candidate to be invincible must have the law-breakers for him. They are not for "Folk the Fellow Fighter."

Judge Lockren, of St. Paul, has decided against Gov. Van Sant in his great case against the Northern Securities Company, Jas. J. Hill's celebrated "merger" of Northwestern railroad interests. The governor will take an appeal. The decision holds that the state laws had not been violated.

Pennypacker, of Pennsylvania, seems to have been outdone in China in suppressing the liberty of the press. Sheen Schien, a Pekin editor, was beaten to death at the order of the Dowager Empress because he was a reformer. His punishment lasted for two hours, and the flesh on his back, arms and legs was reduced to ribbons.

Special Judge Robbins convened the Scott circuit court at Georgetown yesterday to try Caleb Powers for alleged complicity in the assassination of William Goebel. There will be considerable new evidence and a notable witness will be Henry E. Yousey, now serving a life term for his share in the crime. The jury may be obtained from Bourbon county.

Col. T. C. Campbell, who is in charge of the prosecution of Gov. Goebel's assassins, will obtain again from Gov. Beckham a request to Gov. Durbin to deliver W. S. Taylor to Kentucky. In case this is refused a mandamus will be sought before the supreme court of the United States. Should one be granted and disobeyed, contempt proceedings will be begun.

The Livingston Banner is strongly urging the nomination of Charlie Grassham by the District Convention, for State Senator next Friday.

All candidates of the anti-Thompson faction have withdrawn and only J. W. Gilbert, of Calloway, is an open candidate, but F. K. Grasty, of Trigg, and C. C. Grassham, of Livingston, are in a waiting attitude.

The Cynthia Democrat is giving excellent accounts of the Jett-White trial, now in progress there. The Democrat ridicules the flight of Capt. B. J. Ewen on the day before the trial began, because he was not promised a constant guard of soldiers. The Captain's show of timidity in a law-abiding Bluegrass county did not add to his reputation for bravery.

Better Than Gold.

"I was troubled for several years with chronic indigestion and nervous debility," writes F. J. Green of Lancaster, N. H. "No remedy helped me until I began taking Dr. King's Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicine I ever used. They have kept my wife in excellent health for years. She says Electric Bitters are just splendid for female trouble; that they are a great tonic and invigorator for the aged, and draw down water. No other medicine can take up place in our family." ### The Cosmopolitan.

The Cosmopolitan for August is particularly noteworthy from three different aspects: First, every article is not only interesting in subject, but entertaining in style; second, it is a Midsummer Fiction Number, replete with brilliant short stories of love and adventure; third, its articles are profusely and finely illustrated. "Dramatic Schools," by David Belasco; an article on the meat-packing industry. Frank Moss's "The Tragedy of Policy in New York," "Shakespeare in Modern Settings," and "Romances of the World's Great Mines: The Klondike," all are illustrated with splendid photographs, and written in an enter-

AUGUST WEATHER.

Ifigured Out By Marsh, the Ohio Prophet

Month of Intense Heat and Numerous Electrical Storms, With Considerable Rain.

Prophet Marsh says: August will be a month of intense heat and damaging storms, covering a greater portion of the entire country.

Damaging storms, high winds, electrical display and at times heavy rains will prevail over the Eastern States, covering New York, New Jersey, Maryland and New England, the Atlantic ocean and coast.

Cyclones and electrical storms, with rain, wind and hail, over the West and Northwestern states.

Destructive storms over Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Illinois and the mountain districts.

Rising streams and creeks will cause much damage to crops and property, and those living along the creeks and streams can look for sudden, dangerous rises.

Terrific cyclones and cloudbursts will occur on the gulf of Mexico, causing damage at Galveston, Tex., and along the Florida and Carolina coasts and states adjoining.

Fair stages of water will prevail in the rivers during the month, and at times dangerous rises may be expected on account of heavy rains, but these rises will be of short duration.

The heavy rains over Savannah, Ga., will flood the lowlands, damaging the rice and cotton crops in that vicinity.

Between 3d and 6th—Extreme heat and principally dry weather will prevail over the entire country, causing many prostrations and deaths.

Between 7th and 12th—Severe storms, high winds and heavy rainfall over the Mississippi and Ohio rivers, and very heavy rains over West Virginia; general storms and rainfall from Lake Huron southward to Texas, covering a belt from the Ohio to the Tennessee river.

Storms, wind and heavy rains over the Gulf and South Atlantic States; cloudbursts and heavy rainfall over the Ohio river and over Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee, causing streams to overflow, damaging crops. These storms will be most severe over central and northern Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia.

Between 13th and 18th—Severe storms, high winds and heavy rainfall over the Mississippi and Ohio rivers, and very heavy rains over West Virginia; general storms and rainfall from Lake Huron southward to Texas, covering a belt from the Ohio to the Tennessee river.

Between 19th and 23d—Heavy rains in the mountain regions of Pennsylvania and Virginia, severe gulf storms extending from Louisiana to Florida. This storm will also range over the states of Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Tennessee.

Between 25th and 31st—General rain and thunderstorms, with high winds over the entire country west of the Mississippi river, extending into Illinois and Tennessee.

BITTEN BY PET DOG.

And Fearing Hydrophobia Madison Was Applied.

Mrs. David Wood, of near Cerneau, was bitten by her pet dog one day last week. The animal acted in such a strange manner that it was feared it had hydrophobia and Mrs. Wood went to Paducah, where a madstone was applied to the wound.

Mistaken Kindness.

Rev. Dr. Isriner, the minister at the Madison Avenue Baptist church, is responsible for this story, though he does not touch for the truth of it, useful as it may be to point a moral: "A needful of young linets were in the corner of a field in India. Having lost their mother, they were cold and hungry. They flapped their leather wings, thereby attracting the attention of a huge elephant which stood near by. 'Ah,' said the minister, 'you poor little things. You have lost your mother and have no home. Come to me, I will give you a home.' And so the elephant sat upon the nest containing the poor little linets."

EARTH'S DESTINATION.

Sold to Be Flying with Incredible Speed Straight for Vegas.

An impatience which is relatively few persons are aware attaches to an expectation which we just gone to Chile from the L. C. Observatory in California. Its object, says Collier's Weekly, is to find out whether we are all bound.

Everybody has heard that the solar system is flying swiftly toward the north. It is a plunging flight that carries us more than 43,000 miles straight through the ether every hour of the day and night. It is a motion of which nothing to do with the earth's annual revolution about the sun, except as it prevents that revolution from carrying the earth back turn and turn to the same spot in space.

In truth, we never get back to the same place. Every new year comes in with the globe at a point more than 300,000,000 miles nearer to a very bright northern star, named Vega, than it was a year earlier. As far as the evidence now in hand goes, the flight of the sun toward the north is as straight as that of the arrow, but the path described by the earth, since it is compelled all the while to circle round and round the flying sun, is a great spiral.

And this we sweep onward, moving continually into new regions, running through what perils nobody can guess—perhaps none at all—and impelled by a force as mysterious as that which drew the unfortunate ship in the Arabian Nights to be wrecked on the mountain of Adamsan.

It is this strange voyage of the sun and its world through the unexplored ocean of immensity that the California astronomers have gone to South Africa to investigate.

Now, the precise object of the expedition to Chile is to examine the light of the southern stars from which we are flying away. They have been much less studied than have the northern stars, to which we are drawing nearer. It is as if the people on the bow of a ship, after watching for a long time the effects of their approach to objects ahead, should visit the stern in order to note the recession of objects behind. Through a combination of such observations the speed and direction of the ship's motion could be deduced.

But there are many other absorbingly interesting questions relating to the organization of the universe, and our place and rank in it, which will be brought nearer to solution by the success of the exploration of the southern heavens, now beginning.

NURSES HAVE TO SLEEP.

How Some Girls Who Attend the Sick Are Abused.

A young nurse of my acquaintance, says Mary Ross, in the Atlantic, was found early one morning unconscious on the entry floor; upon inquiry the doctor learned that from Monday morning till Thursday night she had been without sleep, or even enough time off to bathe and change her clothes. Of course she was extremely foolish to permit such a thing on the patient's account as well as her own, but it was her first private case, and feeling shy about intruding personal wants in a time of general stress, she had relied on coffee and determination to keep her through.

The doctor asked: "Why, do you have to sleep? I thought you were trained?" unfortunately contains not a grain of exaggeration. I have gone to a house where, after a day's nursing, a night spent in staying a typhoid patient, at ten o'clock on the morning of the second day, the nurse was still in charge; no one had given her night lunch, breakfast, or even a cup of coffee. She had been on duty for 26 straight hours working strenuously all the time; not a member of the household seemed equal to taking her place, or indeed dreamt of doing so. Later it was rumored that this girl had become intemperate.

THE HUNTER.

He is out and in the open by breaking of the day. He hath a steady eye and deadly aim. He doth not need the birds or beasts that cross his errant way. For he's after bigger game.

No Indian wears more proudly his trophies than he the hearts that dangle at his belt.

But the Captain signs to kiss each torture and grievous mark.

Till his rosy hands have dealt.

His weapons are old-fashioned—he's always small and gay.

His name is well enough the country and the town.

And when in sight of his quarry, the wise man, like Shakspeare, says,

"Do not shoo him off we'll come down."

The English do him outwile, the hunter acts—hours.

His traps have been said and have been sprung.

Yet still he goes a hunting. He has been an actor, a soldier, a sailor, a pilot, a poet, a man just as when the world was young.

Verna Sheard. In Canadian Magazine.

CAPTAIN BILL'S "STRIKER."

BY ROBERT DALSTEAD.

He had forgotten the friends with him at the theater and dimly heard something about "the constitution following the flag." He was back the Philippines, far north of Manila, with his colored "striker" busily fusing about, trying to make him comfortable. His friends were not used to his forgetfulness of them. He seemed after the Spanish-American war to have gained the habit of falling without warning into fits of reverie when he would wake up to say "No" in answer to a question which should have been answered in the affirmative. Ans. "Yes" when the negative was expected. Capt. Bill was a gentleman and quick to correct the mistaken answers and to apologize for his abstraction.

It did seem strange, however, that he should be so unusually forgetful of the others to-night. They had come together to celebrate his promotion to the two bars on his shoulder straps. Capt. Bill was one of those hastily graduated classes at West Point when the war with Spain came, and had attained a rank which, after the war of the states, had been the final ambition of the graduates, the hoped-for reward of men about to be returned on half-pay after long years of faithful and honorable service.

There had been a jolly dinner in honor of Capt. Bill, a modest hero, at which he had been among the gayest. In the lobby of the theater he had stopped to shake hands with a brother officer. His gay spirits were gone when he took his seat. His face had grown haggard and the square jaw firmly set, so that the smile his friends loved so well was gone. They took it that he must be again on one of his mental journeys. They were most of them army people and knew that these moods were the result of their hard work and the long days of sickness at Montauk Point and the trials of his campaigning in the Philippines. They were intelligent until after the theater.

They had gathered in a restaurant, where a private room was reserved for them. The captain tried to be as cheerful as the rest. He emptied his wine glasses faster than is usual in a company, especially when women are present.

"Look here, captain," said a little lady to his right, "you are in some sort of trouble or you are ill. If you are in trouble you are surrounded by the best friends you have, and if you are ill we ought to do something for you."

He looked up in a half-dazed way, poured down another glass of wine, straightened up and said:

"I don't want to be death at the first. You must pardon me for my fatigues and inattention. I have heard very bad news. I met Maj. Bucklin in the lobby. He told me Jim Tucker is dead. You never knew Jim, of course. He was a negro sergeant, a good soldier, and a most enterprising fellow. You may think it queer that I feel so bad, but it isn't strange. You'd feel like I do if the man who saved your life, the fellow who kept you from going stark mad when the fever came back and you were in charge of a detachment away off from everybody, had died like a dog. With no other officer I had to do alone in these Philippine days."

"Jim used to wait on me and with his droolery keep me laughing. He was better than a doctor. He was black as tar, but he has a great big red heart inside of him. I was wounded the officers in my ward used to laugh at me because I asked so often after Jim. No, I don't want to spoil the fun and I'll be just as jolly as the rest of you."

The company were weary of mock gaiety and eager to hear the story of Jim Tucker. It was as hard to get the captain to tell anything about his experiences in the field as it was to catch him in any way, referring to himself, and they insisted that he tell of Jim, knowing he would have to tell of his own experiences. The captain hesitated and then his eyes lit up. There was a joyful smile at the corners of his mouth, telling the story of his "striker," drooley in the days when they were far from home in the land of the bolo men.

"The first time I took my particular notice of Jim," said the captain, "was a few days after his enlistment at the time of the outbreak of the war with Spain. I was coming down a company street trying to find out who could have such a tremendous and joyful gaiety. Jim had been telling one of his stories to a crowd. My big black men were in convulsions of laughter, but high above them all sounded the merry 'Ha, ha' of Jim. He sort of doubled up with his knees bending, until he could reach the ground. He would roll over and kick his legs, his laughter increasing, and roaring out like a donkey saluting the dawn."

"I never saw anyone before or since laugh that way and moved toward the men. They managed to come to attention and salute, but poor Jim had to be kicked by one of them before he realized the presence of an officer. He jumped up and saluted. As I turned away he continued his joy in his own gaiety way."

"He was the delight of the company on the transport on the way to Cuba, and all the officers had come to regard him with an affectionate interest, for he kept the men in the best of spirits and was at the same time, I believe, the best drilled man in the regiment.

"We were in an ugly scrap where Jim was doing a man's work when suddenly he fell and was carried to the rear. Not long after his bravado above the sound of battle and he came limping back, grimacing from ear to ear. He took his position near me, and when I had a chance I asked him how much he was hurt. He showed me a badly broken pocket-knife. The Spaniard's bullet had hit the knife which had been deep down in his trouser's pocket.

"I moved away with the knife in my hand, and when I passed again

Capt. Bill had been taken to the rear, supposedly dying. I stuffed the knife in my pocket. The next time I saw Jim was at Montana. I had been in 'foolish land' for a long time. They told me after I had been in 'foolish land' where Jim is now. When I ranged to my sense there was Jim to my face. No man ever came back to the world to meet with a better greeting. Jim was so happy he went beyond the hospital tents to have a roll on the ground and one of his old time laughs, but, far away as he was, I heard him and it did my heart good. When I was well enough to wander about in my pajamas with Jim as a support, he used my about the knife and if I had lost it."

"You see, lieutenant, dat knife saved my life. Dat bullet would have killed me small if it hadn't struck to knife. It caromed off and took me through de lip, but I didn't know dat when I handed it to you, and while you was gone I got dizzy and de doctor at Silokey fixed me up and sent me home on de transport."

"Jim got back his knife. My striker was killed at El Caney and so I chose Jim. Now the soldier-a-a rule has little talk with the officers, but when you are a million miles from anywhere and you know that you have an intimitable story teller near he is an immense help toward cheerfulness. Jim got that I was his superior, and the fact that I like his stories made him a man of distinction in the company. He would tell you the same yarn in a dozen different ways, adding to and retelling the incidents with the skill of a writer of plays."

"You want to know how he saved my life? Well, we got word that the insurgents had captured a train of supplies and that they were supposed to be in our neighborhood. We went hunting and came upon them just after dusk."

"I was riding ached with Jim, when on the top of a hill I spied the cars, and just as I did a fellow fired out of the brush to my right. He must have been nervous, for he missed. My horse bolted straight ahead. I yelled to Jim to 'get him,' and the next thing I knew was right among them. I dropped four, and then my last cartridge failed. I said if they would tell me to leave a man to fire at me. He whipped out an ugly knife and held it full in the face with the revolver."

"I did not catch him right, and I never saw a fellow grin as he did. He thought he had me. I caught the first blow on the left hand, and then ran for all I was worth. I felt much soon drop, for I was bleeding at a great rate, and he was getting nearer. Something prompted me to hold the bleeding hand high above my head so that it did not bleed so freely, but the gun was gaining."

"Just then I saw Jim come out of the brush. I dodged to the right to give him a fair shot and he dropped him. The man laid us out near together. They fixed a tourniquet about my arm and bandaged the hand. Then they turned to the man who came so near getting me. He was dying and begged for water. Jim was at his side at once and put his canteen to the insurgent's lips."

"Bueno amigo" he gasped, and was gone. I received medical aid some hours later when reinforcements arrived, and was hurried to Manila. I had lost the use of my hand and was sent on to America, where the surgeons did so well with me that I am minus only two fingers and have perfect use of the others. I expected to see Jim again at the post. I had heard of his promotion until he became a first sergeant."

"It seems that when he reached San Francisco he went out to see the sights. Some rough in Chinatown robbed and killed him."

"Jim always wanted to be buried under a weeping willow near the post, and was with military honors." —N. Y. Times.

Decrease Has All Been in the South.

There have been fifty-two lynchings up to date the present year. The tendency is toward a decrease of lynchings. In 1893 there were 200 lynchings in the country. In 1892 there were only 96, a decrease of over 100 per cent. This decrease has all been in the South.

The housekeeper should bear in mind that alum makes a cheap baking powder. It costs but two cents a pound, while cream of tartar costs thirty. The quality of the powder is, therefore, usually indicated by the price.

LOOPING THE LOOP.

Diavolo's Famous Act a Feature of Forepaugh-Sells Circus.

Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers' United Shows are exploiting a feature this season which eclipses in point of sheer daring anything ever attempted in any arena. It is the famous Diavolo "looping the loop" on a bicycle, an act which created the profoundest sensation in New York City and Philadelphia and elicited more praise and was given more space in the metropolitan press than any single act ever presented to the public.

Looping the loop is described as danger-defying and death-defying, which is as near correct as words can make it. From the extreme height of the canvas dome Diavolo makes a thrilling descent down the narrow plane on a bicycle and the momentum thus gained carries him around the loop at a terrific rate of speed. At the top of the loop both the rider and wheel are upside down and going at the rate of forty miles an hour. It is a hair-raising act and one that all should see, as it gives a practical demonstration of the first scientific lesson of youth—the swinging in a circle of a bucket full of water without spilling. The date of the show here is Thursday, August 27th.

"The way to a man's heart is through his stomach," a good saying meaning that to win a man you must feed him well.

If this is not true, it is still true in another sense that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach.

Many persons imagine that they have heart disease when it is only indigestion.

This is how it comes about. The stomach distended by gas, crowds the heart and gives the feeling that the trouble is in the heart. If you don't know that you have heart trouble, try using Walter's Peptonized Port and see if it does not relieve you. For sale by Anderson & Fowler, & J. O. Cook, Druggists, Hopkinsville, Ky.

BUD O'BRIEN

Resigns as Receiver at Western Asylum.

Mr. J. C. O'Brien, for three years receiver at the Western Asylum, resigned his place some time ago to take effect August 1. He gave up the position Saturday and has returned to his home in Owensboro. Mr. O'Brien has throughout his entire term made a popular and painstaking official and quite with the good opinion of the people of Christian county, to whom he came a stranger three years ago.

His retirement brought about a contest for the office of receiver last week, in which the Board of Commissioners took part. Mr. W. C. Cook, an attendant at the asylum, was endorsed for the place by a majority of the board, but when Dr. W. W. Ray, the Superintendent, heard of the action being taken in Mr. Cook's behalf, he dismissed him from the position he already held, without giving him any explanation, so it is said.

Mr. W. J. Chiles, it is said, will be made receiver, by direction of Gov. Beckham.

The position of receiver pays $50 a month and is filled by appointment of the Superintendent.

CARRIE RILED.

Saloon Smasher Lectures to Noisy Crowd.

After smashing a bottle of the best whisky at a Pennsylvania picnic resort, and moralizing with several pedestrians on the streets as to the dangers attendant upon cigarette smoking, Carrie Nation, the Kansas saloon smasher, lectured at the baseball park near Pottsville.

The crowd she drew was noisy, and a brigade of young men, purposely at a given signal, lighted cigarettes to annoy her. This riled the old lady, so she challenged any one in the crowd to debate with her on the question:

"Resolved, That the Republican party is the interest enemy to the rights of the American people."

No one took up her challenge.

She scored President Roosevelt for bringing to Kansas last May his "saloon on wheels." She said that had she not been led away she would have smashed it to flinters.
